OUR MANAGEMENT

Basel Mission Higher Education Centre (BMHEC) came into existence in 1847 at Dharwad, paved way to a new era in the field of education in North Karnataka particularly in Dharwad District. It began its work by establishing a primary school, later on it ventured into establishment of several other educational institutions. Currently it runs 7 primary schools, 7 high schools, 4 junior colleges, 3 degree colleges and a training college. Currently about 500 dedicated staff are serving in these institutions and about 15000 students are learning. Kittel Arts College is one of the three degree colleges run by the BMHEC Dharwad offering graduation course in Arts.

Our beloved President Rt. Rev. Bishop Ravikumar Niranjan is a great educationist, visionary and devotee. BMHEC is able to reach its zenith of success in fulfilling the hopes and aspirations of the globalized world with the dynamism of our President and the dedication of the trustees and board of management.

OUR COLLEGE

KITTEL ARTS COLLEGE was established on 1st July, 1988 as a result of the bifurcation of the erstwhile Kittel College (Est. 1969) into Kittel Arts College and Kittel Science College. The College is managed by Karnataka Northern Diocese, Church of South India, Basel Mission Higher Education Centre, Dharwad which affiliated to the Karnataka University, Dharwad.

The Institution is named after the celebrated Kannada Savant and lexicographer Rev. Dr. Ferdinand Kittel (1832-1903) who came to India as a missionary in 1853, deputed by the Basel Mission, Germany. He soon gained mastery over the south Indian languages and compiled the voluminous and important Kannada-English Dictionary (1894). His life and teaching set an example to the young students to emulate.

The college is situated by the side of old Poona-Bangalore National High-Way (No.4) and is within the walking distance from any part of the city and is accessible to all necessary facilities.

The institution aims at imparting a sound learning and liberal education. It provides instruction in Arts faculties at the degree level, leading to B.A. degree.

The College aims at scholarship, fellowship and leadership. Its cardinal desire is to develop an all-round personality of the young people with a spirit of dedication for service. Hence our motto is:

"NOT TO BE SERVED; BUT TO SERVE"

OUR MANAGEMENT

Basel Mission Higher Education Centre (BMHEC) came into existence in 1847 at Dharwad, paved way to a new era in the field of education in North Karnataka particularly in Dharwad District. It began its work by establishing a primary school, later on it ventured into establishment of several other educational institutions. Currently it runs 7 primary schools, 7 high schools, 4 junior colleges, 3 degree colleges and a training college. Currently about 5000 dedicated staff are serving in these institutions and about 15000 students are learning. Kittel Arts College is one of the three degree colleges run by the BMHEC Dharwad offering graduation course in Arts.

Our beloved President Rt. Rev. Bishop Ravikumar Niranjan is a great educationist, visionary and devotee. BMHEC is able to reach its zenith of success in fulfilling the hopes and aspirations of the globalized world with the dynamism of our President and the dedication of the trustees and board of management.

OUR COLLEGE

KITTEL ARTS COLLEGE was established on 1st July, 1988 as a result of the bifurcation of the erstwhile Kittel College (Est. 1969) into Kittel Arts College and Kittel Science College. The College is managed by Karnataka Northern Diocese, Church of South India, Basel Mission Higher Education Centre, Dharwad which affiliated to the Karnataka University, Dharwad.

The Institution is named after the celebrated Kannada Savant and lexicographer Rev. Dr. Ferdinand Kittel (1832-1903) who came to India as a missionary in 1853, deputed by the Basel Mission, Germany. He soon gained mastery over the south Indian languages and compiled the voluminous and important Kannada-English Dictionary (1894). His life and teaching set an example to the young students to emulate.

Our college which is named after Dr.Rev.Ferdinand Kittel, one of the erudite Basel Missionaries who contributed immensely for the development of Kannada Lexicography, Grammar and edition of classical texts. The Basel Mission Higher Education Centre was established by selfless and dedicated services of many missionaries and social reformers in Dharwad. They had the vision and foresight for the upliftment of the downtrodden and the illiterate. Their efforts were further nourished and nurtured by the founder members. The Basel Missionaries have rendered yeoman service in the field of literature and upliftment of society.

As we celebrate the Golden Jubilee we feel it is but appropriate to critically evaluate their contribution as a token of appreciation for their social services for the development of Indian society. In this context we are planning to organize One-day National Level Seminar on the contribution of Basel Missionaries in the field of social development. Therefore we selected specific topic for seminar i.e on "SOCIAL INNOVATION FOR THE AGEING POPULATION"

ABOUT THE SEMINAR :

Population of ageing has been recognized as an emerging challenge in many parts of the world. Earlier studies discussed its impacts on the sustainability of social security system and national economic growth; however, they tended to focus on the issue at the national level, with the knowledge that ageing population will be a predominant trend in both developed and developing countries.

OUR MANAGEMENT

Basel Mission Higher Education Centre (BMHEC) came into existence in 1847 at Dharwad, paved way to a new era in the field of education in North Karnataka particularly in Dharwad District. It began its work by establishing a primary school, later on it ventured into establishment of several other educational institutions. Currently it runs 7 primary schools, 7 high schools, 4 junior colleges, 3 degree colleges and a training college. Currently about 500 dedicated staff are serving in these institutions and about 15000 students are learning. Kittel Arts College is one of the three degree colleges run by the BMHEC Dharwad offering graduation course in Arts.

Our beloved President Rt. Rev. Bishop Ravikumar Niranjan is a great educationist, visionary and devotee. BMHEC is able to reach its zenith of success in fulfilling the hopes and aspirations of the globalized world with the dynamism of our President and the dedication of the trustees and board of management.

OUR COLLEGE

KITTEL ARTS COLLEGE was established on 1st July, 1988 as a result of the bifurcation of the erstwhile Kittel College (Estd. 1969) into Kittel Arts College and Kittel Science College. The College is managed by Karnataka Northern Diocese, Church of South India, Basel Mission Higher Education Centre, Dharwad and affiliated to the Karnatak University, Dharwad.

The Institution is named after the celebrated Kannada Savant and lexicographer Rev. Dr. Ferdinand Kittel (1832-1903) who came to India as a missionary in 1853, deputed by the Basel Mission, Germany. He soon gained mastery over the south Indian languages and compiled the voluminous and important Kannada-English Dictionary (1894). His life and teaching set an example to the young students to emulate.

The college is situated by the side of old Poona-Bangalore National High-Way (No.4) and is within the walking distance from any part of the city and is accessible to all necessary facilities.

The institution aims at imparting a sound learning and liberal education. It provides instruction in Arts faculties at the degree level, leading to B.A. degree.

The College aims at scholarship, fellowship and leadership. Its cardinal desire is to develop an all-round personality of the young people with a spirit of dedication for service. Hence our motto is:

PREFACE

We take this pleasure in bringing out conference proceedings of selected papers presented at one day multidisciplinary national level seminar on the topic "Social Innovations for Ageing Population" held at Kittel Arts College, Dharwad on 9th February 2019.

The demographic profile of India is now witnessing changes. The ageing population which was just 7.5% in 2001 has increased to 8.6% in 2011. It is predicted that the population of senior citizens in India could be around 19% by 2050. This will only mean that caring for the elderly and all aspects of geriatric services would come under greater focus and attention in the coming years.

Population ageing is an inevitable and irreversible demographic reality associated with improvements in health and medical care, as well as with decline in fertility. While increasing longevity is a matter to celebrate, various studies have found multiple morbidities and disabilities linked to the advancement of age. Everyone has a part to play for the well being of the elderly people. Families will have to provide for both financial and psychological resources to take care of the elderly. Loneliness is one of the major causes for worry in the nuclear families. Hence the elderly are to be equipped to fight against fears of loneliness, deprivation, depression etc. Governments would need to invest more in schemes and activities for the welfare of the senior citizens.

In this context, there is a dire need to innovate social and economical strategies to support the ageing population of the country. As a responsive organisation, Kittel Arts College, Dharwad in collaboration with Department of Social Work, Central University of Karnataka, Kalaburagi has owned the responsibility of organising multidisciplinary national level seminar on the topic "Social Innovations for Ageing Population".

This book is the outcome of the papers presented in the national seminar. These papers will reflect the emerging dimensions of research and practices required to improve the lives of the ageing population in our country. We hope that research articles covered in this edited book would help policy makers in framing a suitable policy for the elderly in the country. This proceeding is also food for thought for the researchers, academicians, scholars and practitioners.

We look forward for your valuable suggestions.

-Dr. C. P. Manohar.

1. Introduction:

Dharwad is the district headquarters of Dharwad district in the state of Karnataka, India. It was merged with the city of Hubballi in 1961 to form the twin cities of Hubballi-Dharwad. It covers an area of 200.23 km² and is located 425 km northwest of Bengaluru, on NH- 04 between Bengaluru and Pune.

The word "Dharwad" means a place of rest in a long travel or a small habitation. For centuries, Dharwad acted as a gateway between the Malenadu (western mountains) and the Bayalu seeme (plains); it became a resting place for travelers. The name is derived from the Sanskrit word 'dwarawata': 'dwara' meaning "door" and 'wata' or 'wada' meaning "town". A different theory suggests that during the Vijayanagara rule of Dharwad there was a ruler by name "of Dharav" (1403), and Dharwad got its name from him. There are inscriptions that refer to Dharwad as Kampana Sthana.

Dharwad is one of the major progressive districts in North Karnataka region. The district with rich soil and climate has vast agricultural potentials. Hubli- Dharwad city is fast developing as the commercial and industrial hub in this part of the state. The city is also considered as the Educational and Cultural capital of North Karnataka region. Dharwad district is well served by large number of schools, colleges and three universities in Hubli- Dharwad city is considered as the educational and cultural capital of North Karnataka region.

There are three Universities in Dharwad district. They are; (1) Karnatak University, Dharwad (2) University of Agricultural Sciences, Dharwad (3) Karnatak Law University, Hubli

1. Lord Basaveshwara (1131 – 1167)

➤ Life and Works

The champion of Modern education, KayakaRatna, Lord Basaveshwar was born at Engaleshwara in Basavan Bagewadi, Bijapur district of Karnataka State. It is believed that he was born in 1130 1131. Basaveshwar was born of Brahmin Parents- Madiraja and Madilambike. Bagewadi, in those days, was a noted Agrahara that is an exclusive habitation of Brahmins. Basaveshwara had an elder brother by name Devaraj and an elder sister by name Nagamma. It appears; he developed abilities of high thinking quite early in his life. During his 8th year he refused to undergo the traditional thread ceremony and opposed all vedic rituals. Because of this, he had to leave home. He went to sangam, a pilgrim centre, to stay with his sister Nagamma. At that time, there lived in Sangam a sage by name Jatavedamuni. He was famous as sangameshwarguru. Basaveshwar studied under the tutelage of Jatavedamani for about 10-12 years. During this period only, Basaveshwara thought of a new religious sect and planned to start it. Meanwhile, as ordered by his Guru Sangamanath (Some maintain that the Guru desired that) Basaveshwara had to leave for Mangalvade to stay with his maternal uncle Baladevea. There he was employed as the clerk of the Treasury of Bijjala. Gradually, he gained confidence of siddanna, the commander. Later on the gained confidence of Bijjala also.

Basaveshwara then married Gangambike, the daughter of his maternal uncle Baladeva. He also married another lady by name Neelambike. Basaveshwara's sister Nagamma, her husband Shivaswami and their son chennabasavanna had come with Basaveshwara to mangalavade and they stayed with him.

About this time Bijjala, the feudatory prince of Tailapa, the emperor of KalyanaChalukya, overthrew him and seized his throne and came to power. Since Bijjala had confidence in Basaveshwara, he invited Basaveshwara to Kalyana and appointed him as the chief Treasurer. Along with discharging his official duties and functions, Basaveshwara started Propagating his new religion. Many people who had been disgusted with vedic rituals and hierarchical and discriminatory social system, became followers of Basaveshwara. As a symbol of having accepted the new religion of Basaveshwara the practice wearing the "Linga" started gaining ground. People from different castes, more so from the lower castes, got attracted towards the new religion and accepted it by being initiated with wearing the "Linga". Allamprabhu was one such person, with whose help Basaveshwara established an institution called "AnubhavaMantapa". This provided a forum for philosophical discussions and discourses and became a centre of social and religious revolution which Basaveshwara had started at Kalyana. The followers of Vedic traditions, though appearing to be calm in the beginning got enraged at the influence which Basaveshwara was wielding on the common people. Complaints were made against Basaveshwara to Bijjala that he was misusing the state funds in the name of “Dasoha” Some others alleged that Basaveshwara was inciting communal feelings among the people. Bijjala, however, turned a deaf ear to all these complaints and allegations. But with the approval of Basaveshwara, the marriage of the daughter of the BhaminMadhuvayya with the son of Haralayya; an untouchable, resulted in a great social turmoil in Kalyana. As a result, both Madhuvayya and Haralayya were charged with treason in celebrating the inter-caste marriage and were awarded death sentence by Bijjala. Within the next few days, Bijjala also was killed. The followers of Basaveshwara were charged with the offence of killing Bijjala. Soon, thereafter, the followers were being attacked wherever they were found. This made Basaveshwara quite helpless and he run away to KudalSangam from where they never returned. He breathed his last in 1167 at KudalSangam.

Kayaka Theory

➤ Meaning and Importance

The term “Kayaka” is generally understood to mean manual labour exerted by everyone to eke out one’s living.

The term ‘Kaya’ means “human body”. That which is used to earn one’s living is generally defined as “Kayaka”. This, however, is too narrow a meaning. (It may also mean that one has to exert manual labour to earn his living)

But Basaveshwara and his followers, “Sharanas” as they are called, have used the term “Kayaka” in a wider meaning. First one---Kayaka is the work done without any deceit and fraud. It is pure and clean work. Second concept – Exerting manual labour, fallowing some occupation or vocation, earning. One’s living by religious and just means, utilizing the earnings needed to lead a simple life and spend the remaining earnings on social service or “Dasoha”. This is a nutshell is the gist of Basaveshwara’s concept of “Kayaka”.

Every one – man and women – has to undertake some “Kayaka” without which one will not be entitled to eat. One may fallow any “Kayaka” – (occupation or vocation). All “Kayakas” are equally dignified. As long as one pursues his “Kayaka” in a just way, no “Kayaka” is either superior or inferior. This is in brief is the interpretation of the term “Kayaka” according to Basaveshwara.

There is a hymn in the Rig-veda which conveys more or less the same meaning as above mentioned. It says, “I am a poet, My father a physician. My mother grinds corn. As –cows get their fodder from different grazing grounds, we also, by following different occupations or vocations, desire to get riches and happiness.” But the aim of all these is to earn one’s living. The gist of this hymn is that one may choose any occupation or vocation to earn one’s living. No occupation is either superior or inferior.

But during the post-Vedic period this concept of “Kayaka” suffered a decline. People – started believing that occupations involving manual labour were inferior to those involving less manual labour. These were considered as superior occupations. The ideas concerning “Kayaka” that prevailed during the pre-Basava era may be codified as under.

- 1) Each clan or caste has a “Kayaka” (occupation or vocation) prescribed for it. As such there are different occupations for Brahmins, Kshatriyas, the merchant communities, the washer man, the cobblers, etc. Thus occupations are based on caste.
- 2) Each individual should pursue or undertake only that occupation prescribed for his/her caste or clan. One should not desire to pursue the occupation of the higher caste.
- 3) Brahmins are superior or the best. As such, the occupations pursued by them are also the best ones. Occupations pursued by washer man, cobblers, and basket makers and such other low caste people are inferior.
- 4) Rewards and status will be available in accordance with the “Kayaka” or occupation one follows.
- 5) Occupations involving manual labour are low or inferior occupations. Occupations pursued by ascetics or religious mendicants (“Sanyasis”), physicians and ministers do not involve manual labour.

As such they are superior occupations. There is no need for them to do manual labour.

Basaveshwar never accepted the ideas mentioned above. He therefore put forth his own new concepts regarding “Kayaka” (occupation) before the people. Some of the important points concerning “Kayaka” are mentioned below.

- 1) The ordinary or common sense meaning of the term “Kayaka” means the manual labour one exerts to eke out one’s living. But according to veerashaiva religion it means “work performed for oneself and for society, undertaken with a sense of dedication to Lord Shiva.”

2) “Kayaka” exists not just for the good of the individual or his/her family but for the good of society. In the way in which it is needed for the good of the family, in the same way, it is needed for the good of the entire society.

3) It is our duty to pursue our “Kayaka” or occupation religiously and in a just manner. Earning money by other means is not “Kayaka”. The Occupation of a thief and a money lender is not “Kayaka”. That occupation which is beneficial to oneself and also to others is to be considered as “Kayaka”.

4) One should not utilize one’s all earnings only for selfish ends but should retain such amount which is absolutely necessary for oneself. The remainder should be spent on “Dasoha”, i.e., service to society or for social service.

5) To work to earn money or a mass wealth is not “Kayaka”. That which is earned with a view to amassing wealth for selfish purposes is not “Kayaka.” According to Basaveshwara, “After getting up and rubbing one’s eyes if one starts thinking that so much is for my wife and children and also so much for to-day and so much for tomorrow,” it is no “Kayaka”, at all. Basavshwara also said that he served Bijjala not for his selfish purposes but for the welfare of the society.

6) No “Kayaka” (Vocation or Occupation) is superior or high; nor is there one which is inferior or low. All “Kayakas” undertaken or done in just and religious way, are all equal. The work of the “Shetty”, i.e., the merchant, the work of a washerman, or that of a cobber or that of a person dealing in animal hides must be considered as equal and on the same level.

- 7) Stretching one's hands before others for alms or begging, is not considered to be a "Kayaka". According to Basaveshwara, food procured by persistently begging and troubling others, is not "Kayaka", and does not deserve to be afforded as "Naivedya", to god.
- 8) One should always undertake some "Kayaka" and should never be dependent on others. "They are real "Sharanas", i.e., true devotees, who do not eke out their living at the lost of others" leading a life under obligation of others, is not "Kayaka" at all.
- 9) Everyone should engage oneself in some "Kayaka" irrespective of whether he/she is a devotee ("Sharana") a "Guru" (teacher) "Jangama" (an ascetic or a mendicant) "Even if one were to be a "Guru", he/she also has to do some "Kayaka".
- 10) Whether it is agriculture or any other vocation, one has to work with devotion and undertake "Dasoha". Such a person only is a devotee of the highest order. "What if agriculture is pursued as a "Kayaka"? Please show me the feet of that person who has exerted physical or manual labour in order to achieve "Dasoha" because such a one alone is a devotee of the highest order.("Paramasadbhakta"). This is what Basaveshwara has said.

There are no restrictions regarding who should undertake what "Kayaka" or vocation. A "Sharana (devotee) whether male or female – can undertake any "Kayaka" of his/her choice.

- 11) One can attain salvation (“Shivattva”) while pursuing one’s “Kayaka”. Nuliyachandayya by rope making, Appanna pursuing his vocation as a barber, marayya by gleaning rice—all these persons pursued their vocation or “Kayakata”. Kayakka never comes in the way of achieving self-realization.
- 12) By learning or inclined towards renunciation and deserting wife and children roaming about as a sanyasi or ascetic, and exhibiting signs of devotion and detachment, would amount of self-deceit. Instead of such a life, the life of a family man and the “Kayaka”- he pursues, is one thousand times superior.

Being influenced by such thoughts of Basaveshwaras, thousands of devotees of Lord Shiva, by-pursuing their “Kayaka” achieved spiritual realization and composed many “Vachanas”. A long list of such devotees may be given. Nuliyachandayya, moligeyaMarayya, AydakkiMarrayya, MadarChannayya, MadarKetayya, KinnariBommayya, Ambigarachoudayya, HadapadaAppanna, DoharKakkayya, TurugaiRamanna, Suchikayakada Rami Tunde, BachikuyadaBasappa, Kottananda, Remmavva, ParihariMattanna- all these, as their names indicate, had engaged themselves in various “Kayakas”. By pursuing their “Kayaka” they led a pious life and came to be identified as “Mahasharanas”, i.e., great devotees.

➤ Importance of Kayaka

- 1) As the outset, it may appear that a society practicing the principle of “Kayaka” may not be able to establish production units based on capitalism, or large industries. But such a society will definitely be a “Happy state” (SukhiRajya). May be, it may not be possible to generate capital, because the savings from “Kayaka” are to be utilized for “Dasoha”. But there is no doubt that people pursuing the principle of “Kayaka” derive happiness, peace and tolerance by pursuing the principle of “Kayaka”.

- 2) It is the principle of “Kayaka” only which is based on the principle of co-operation. Because of this, it may be possible to establish a socialist society. This society propagates the theory that the savings under the system of “Kayaka”. Shall be shared with one and all in the society. It is only in such a society that the values of brotherhood, co-operation and equality will take roots and grow strongly.
- 3) The principles of “Kayaka” as enunciated by Basaveshwara, declares that all “Kayakas” are equal. This being so, the castes associated with the “Kayakas” though different (from one another), cannot be differentiated as superior or high or inferior or low. People who believe that “Kayakas” are equal will never agree about differentiation or discrimination among castes. Because of this the ideal of equality gets more encouragement.
- 4) Basaveshwara has declared that each “Kayaka” has its own status or position. People can choose their “Kayaka” or vocation. There are no restrictions. His idea was that we must give respect to all “Kayakas”. By so doing, we will support the idea of dignity of labour or vocation. This is good for the health of the society.
- 5) The principle of “Kayaka” declared that an individual should fulfill the obligations of his family and the society and shoulder responsibilities. The principle of “Kayaka” highlights the importance’s of the family and the community and states that those married people who are engrossed in their “Kayaka”, are truly great in preference to those who, in the name of devotion, detachment and renunciation, desert their wife and children, ignore the helpless people and (at times) allow them to die.

According to Dr. HiremallurIshwaran, Basaveshwaraabolished the discrimination among the various castes as prevalent in the “Varnashrama” system and established in its place, the dignity of labourand dignity of vocation. The numerous “Sharanas” coming from all the eight directions of the country were free to choose any vocation suited to them and converted the stagnant society into a more mobile and flexible one. Basaveshwara and his followers and colleagues refused to accept the belief of caste deciding vocation one had to choose and in its place established the dignity of vocation or occupation which would prove to be the way to salvation. This resulted in the concept of “Kayaka”, shook the strong roots of “Varanashrama” system, made the stagnant Indian society more active, and thereby the principle of dignity of labour or vocation acquired a stable and firm foundation.

His Views on Casteism:

According to Basaveshwara, Nobody superior or inferior (high or low) by birth. Persons may be considered as high or low, superior or inferior, with respect to their actions. “He who kills is a “Madiga”, he who eats filthy things is a ‘Holeya’ or a pariah.” This means one will not be a “Madiga” and another Pariah by birth. Therefore, we should not differentiate between the Varna’s (classes or clans of people) as superior or inferior not between castes as high or low. All men are born equal. After one wears the ‘Linga’, there will be no high or low. All will be equal.

According to Basaveshwara there is no caste attached to birth. There is no caste attached to those wearing the Linga on their chest. As wearers of the Linga, they are all devotees of Lord shiva. Machayya, a wahserman, and Allama –Prabhu are equals. Neither Cobber (Madiga) is an inferior caste no Brahmin is a superior caste. Though they are different vocations, they command the same respect.

“How can I call Siriyala a ‘Shetti’, a businessman?

How Machayya can be a washer-man?

How Kakkayya can be called as “Dohar”, i.e., a person dealing in animal hides?

How can I call chennayya a cobbler?

These were some of the thoughts of Basaveshwara

In the same way, Basaveshwara stoutly refused to believe in discrimination and inequalities between sexes.

2. Reverend. Ferdinand Kittel.

Brief Introduction about life and Works of Kittel:

Reverend Ferdinand Kittel was born on 7 April 1832 in Resterhufe, East Frisia. Arrived in India in 1853 as a priest and ideologist with the Basel Mission in south India and worked in Mangalore, Madikeri and Dharwad in Karnataka. His father's name is Gottfried Christian Kittel and his mother's name is Helen Hubert. He is most famous for his studies of the Kannada language.

As a missionary, he endeavored to follow Paul's first Epistle to the Corinthians and "become as an Indian unto the Indians", and undertook exhaustive studies learning the Kannada language, customs and local music. This earned rebuke from the Basel Mission, where he was already an outsider on account of his North German origin and academic education (the other missionaries were chiefly from southwest Germany and the lower/middle classes, though Gottfried Weigle had studied at Tübingen). This marginalised him by pushing him to a remote station in the Nilgiris and later confining him to the mission's press in Mangalore. He returned to Germany, but visited India again in his fifties to complete his dictionary, which by then had become for him an end in itself, and not merely an instrument secondary to missionary work.

German missionaries, with the knowledge of Bible and the life of Christ, entered India to propagate the religion against all odds. Rev Ferdinand Kittel is one among such luminaries like Herman Mogling, ReJohnLayor, Y Muller, Godfrey, George Urth and Fredrick Zigler.

Mogling came to India in 1853 and undertook exhaustive studies learning the Kannada language, customs and local music.

His Literary Achievements:

After serving as deputy to Herman Mogling, Kittel was sent to Dharwad. Noticing the dearth of literature on religion in the local language, while propagating 'Suvarte', Kittel wrote and released 'Kathamale' in 1862.

He also composed poems on the life and teachings of Christ and translated carols. He was a priest and worked in Mangalore, Madikeri and Dharwad. Kittel wrote 'ParamatmanaJnana' in 1863 which included four chapters dealing with Hindu rituals, nature and God. His another work 'YesukrithanaShramacharitre' written in 1865 deals with incidents prior to the crucifixion of the Christ.

In 1870, he brought out 'Christ Sabhayatre', a guide for protestant Christians' religious practices. His other works include 'A tract on Sacrifice (1872) and The Parable of Sower (1872). He published some textbooks along with 'Karnataka Kavyamale' (1874) and Kannada Panchatantra (1876). He edited 'ShabdamaniDarpana' of Keshiraja and named it 'Jewel Mirror of Grammar' in 1872 and also edited 'Chandombudhi' a prosody of Nagavarma in 1875 and called it 'Kannada Chandassu'. Kittel wrote articles in first ever Kannada daily 'MangaloreSamachara' and edited hitra Vartamana Sangraha, India Mattu Anya Deshada Vartika newspapers.

❖ Kannada-English Dictionary:

He is most famous for producing the first ever Kannada-English dictionary of about 70,000 words. For which he invested 24 years, visiting every nook and corner of the habitats of then State, to collect words and published it in 1894, which won him a D.Litt Degree, from a Tuebingen University in Germany. Kittel also penned 'A Grammar of the Kannada Language'. Widely recognized in Karnataka, he is credited with shaping the Kannada language and the regional identity of its speakers. A statue on M G Road in Bangalore and another one in Dharwad commemorate him. Kittel, who died in 1903, is referred to as a Kannada saint.

3. Mahatma Gandhi (1869-1948)

“Literacy is not the end of education nor even the beginning. It is one of the means whereby man and women can be educated. Literacy in itself is no education” --Gandhi

Introduction

Mohandas Karmachand Gandhi was a great leader, a practical philosopher and a socio-political reformer of the modern India. The father of the nation, as he is called, was the apostle of peace and non-violence and champion of freedom movement. He devoted his life for this mission. And incessantly worked for the upliftment of the millions of down-trodden, poverty-stricken, half-naked and semi-starved masses of India. He gave new direction to the freedom movement and ultimately brought independence. The nation was free from the foreign yoke and subjugation on 15th August 1947. Gandhiji wanted to establish castles society with no exploitation and racial discrimination. I would be an ideal society- a sarvodyasamaj- a ram rajya. For this purpose he devised a potential means and that was education He considered education as a means of removing ignorance, darkness and superstitions of the people. His philosophy of education was the outcome of his long experience of political, social and economic life fo the country and the world. His last but the most important gift, was a scheme of education which is the subject of our discussion.

➤ Life and Works

Mohandas Karmachand Gandhi was born on October 2, 1869 at Porbandar in Kathiawar, the present state of Gujarat. His grandfathers as well as his father were Diwans (Prime ministers) of the state of Porbandar. His father was a Diwan of other two states- Rajkot and Bikaner also Gandhi's mother was a deeply religious lady. She has greatly influenced Gandhi's character and personality. After passing his matriculation examination in 1887 Gandhiji sailed for England on September 4, 1887 for studying law. He passed his law examination in 1891 and returned to India the same year as a Barrister. His mother had died while he was in England. He started his practice at Bombay, but he did not succeed here as a lawyer. He came back to Rajkot for practicing law in the lower courts. There he got an opportunity of going to South Africa to help in a big law case in 1893. He thought to remain in South Africa only for a year, but the destiny ruled otherwise and he chose to remain there for full twenty years.

It is here that he thought of his spiritual weapon of Satyagraha with which he came back to his mother-land and utilize it for the political renaissance and freedom of his countrymen. In this chapter it is not our purpose to give either an account of Gandhi's struggles in South Africa for the emancipation of the oppressed non-whites or his distinguished and unparalleled role in leading the freedom struggle in India. We do not intend also here to describe Gandhi's various qualities and roles in different spheres of human activities. Because of his unique service Gandhi is not only a heritage of India but of the entire world. The whole world used to look towards him with awe and great devotion and when Nathuram Godse shot him dead on January 30, 1948. The whole world sunk into deep grief. At his death George Bernard Shaw exclaimed "Oh, it is dangerous to be too good" and Albert Einstein meant to say, "A day will come when people will wonder if a personality like that of Gandhi ever walked in human skeleton, flesh and blood on this earth.

Educational Philosophy of Gandhi

Keeping in view the aforementioned factors Gandhi evolved absolutely a new philosophy of education. By education he meant, ‘an all-round drawing out of the best in child and man-body, mind and spirit.’ He said that literacy should never be the end of education nor even the beginning. “It is only one of the means whereby man and women can be educated.” True education, according to Gandhi is that which draws out and stimulated the intellectual and physical faculties of the children. He attached greater importance to the personality of the educand than to the tools and the subjects. A sound education, he believed, should produce useful citizens whole men and whole women is considered one, who has harmonious development of all four aspects of the human personality- body heart, mind and spirit- Any scheme of education, emphasizing only one of these aspects of the personality is a lopsided education. This was the defect that he found in the prevailing system of education. No effort was being made to adjust the child intelligently and actively to his environment. Education, he took, “not in a parochial sense of a classroom process, but in its broad and true sense of a lifelong process which begins with the beginning and ends with the end of the life going on constantly and unceasingly.

The main principles of his new Educational Philosophy

- 1) Free and compulsory primary education

- 2) Craft centered education
- 3) Self-supporting element
- 4) Emphasis on mother-tongue
- 5) Creed of Non-violence

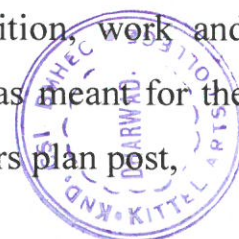

Gandhi and Basic Education

Basic Education as his Special Contribution

In the year 1937, Gandhi finalized a scheme of education out of his experiments and tried for its adoption throughout the country. The scheme is popularly known as the wardha scheme, a national programme in basic education. He placed the salient features of this scheme of education in the All India National Education Conference convened at Wardha (a place now in Maharashtra State of India) on the 22nd and 23rd October, 1937. He became the president of the conference. It was attended by the education ministers of all seven provinces. The scheme popularly known as the basic education scheme was drawn up according to the ideals of Gandhi. To prepare a detailed syllabus, a committee was appointed under the chairmanship of Dr. Zakir Hussein, which submitted its report on 2nd December, 1937. This report contained a detailed syllabus and made suggestions about several aspects, like the training of teacher, supervision, examination administration etc.

Again at the Sevagram conference in 1945, Gandhi put before our country his entire scheme of pre-basic, basic, post basic and adult education programme. He designed pre-basic education for children under six years of age. At this stage principles of sanitation, hygiene, nutrition, work and helping parents at home were emphasized. Basic education was meant for the children under age group seven to fourteen and was a seven years plan post, basic education was designed for the students of age group fourteen and eighteen. That was an extension of the basic education which laid greater emphasis on self-sufficiency. Education at the university stage aimed at national and social needs and the adult education programme aimed at social service and community improvement. Gandhi reintroduced the wardha scheme (Basic National Education) in 1947 and tried for its full adoption in the country.

The scheme of education, introduced by Gandhi is known as Basic Education for the following reasons:

- 1) It is on the ancient Indian culture and lays down the minimum education which every Indian child is entitled to receive without the distinction of caste or creed.
- 2) It is intimately related to the basic needs and interests of the child and makes use of his native potentialities for creative and productive works.
- 3) It is closely associated with the basic occupation of the community that the child hails from

Fundamentals or Chief Tenets of Basic Education

The scheme of basic education introduced by Gandhi is also known as “NaiTalim”, that is education which is ever changing, ever new, ever fresh.

For the sake of clarity and convenience, the fundamentals of this education can be put under the following heads.

- 1) Free compulsory education
- 2) Craft as the centre of education
- 3) Self-supporting aspect
- 4) Mother tongue as medium of instruction

- 5) The cult of non-violence.
- 6) Ideal for citizenship
- 7) The idea of co-operative community.

Gandhi took much pain to express his views on the principles of his scheme of basic education, while writing in the Harijan on 2/11/1947. The principles contained in that article are cited above. Let us now discuss those points in detail.

1) Free compulsory education.

Education should be free for all boys and girls between the age of seven and fourteen. However, girls may be withdrawn at the age of twelve if their guardians so desire. During this period, Gandhi planned to include primary, middle and high school education because that was only so-called education, available to some people in the Indian villages. Gandhi wanted to combine the primary and secondary education. That was the only alternative for rural uplift and rural reconstruction. He wanted to leave higher education to private enterprise. He believed that primary education was the minimum that must be available to all. In this connection he observes: “ I think we can postpone the question of higher education for some time; but the problems of primary education cannot be postponed even for a minute.” Thus the first pre-requisite of his scheme is to extend the torch of knowledge to all. This principle has been accepted in our Constitution in its Article 45.

a) Why Universal Education?

Education is the birth-right of all the human beings. In a democratic society, education of the masses becomes necessary to ensure its success.

and progress. To deprive man of his right of education is to sap his very existence.

b) Why Free Education:

India is a country of poor people. All the parents cannot afford the cost of education. Certain parents even cannot afford to send their children to schools as they are helping hands to them in their daily life. Under basic scheme of education parents would be relieved of this burden although the children shall have to work to pay their tuition fee etc.

c) Why Compulsory?

Majority of the people do not realize the value of education in life. Some parents do not admit their school going children due to one reason or the other. Therefore, under the system of compulsory education, children will be admitted to the schools. Punjab Government introduced compulsory Primary Education Act in 1960, which is still in force.

d) Why education from 7 to 14 years of 6 to 14?

The latest development in the field of Basic education is the introduction of Pre- Basic Education. But regarding craft or manual work to be the centre of all education, minimum age required is six years as maintained by some psychologists. There is an apparent co-ordination in the physical organs of the child. Duration of eight years makes education a complete entity or a terminal stage. This will make the child self-sufficient and an earning hand after its completion.

2. Craft as the Centre of Education

Education should centre round some productive craft. It must have educative possibilities and provide the nucleus of all the other instruction provided in the school. It is not in any way education of craft, it is education through craft. According to ZakirHussain Committee “Modern education thought is practically unanimous in commending the idea of educating children through some suitable form of productive work. This method is considered to be the most effective approach to the problem of providing an integral all-sided education. Emphasis on craft does not mean that craft men are to be produced.

Education through activity in which the child, not the book, is the centre, was a principle already proclaimed and accepted by a host of educational thinkers among whom Herbert, Pestalozzi, Dewey and Montessori are to be counted. In the words of Dr. ZakirHussain, “Children want to do and undo, break and mend things. This is how nature educates them.” Gandhi observed that “the whole process of education should be imparted through handicraft or industry.” This handicraft was to be taught scientifically and not mechanically. The craft recommended were, Spinning, Agriculture, Wood-work and so on.

Some Conditions for the Selection of Craft

- i) The craft or productive work chosen should be rich in educative possibilities.
- ii) It should find natural points of correlation with important human activities and interests.
- iii) It should extend into the whole content of the school curriculum.
- iv) Productive work should not only form a part of the school curriculum- its crafts side-but should also inspire the teaching of all other subjects.
- v) Stress should be laid on the principles of co-operative activity planning, accuracy, initially and individual responsibility in learning.

vi. In all, the craft chosen must be learnt systematically and scientifically with a view to efficiency and practical results. It must not be learnt merely as a means for intellectual work or for economic self-sufficiency. It must be both a means and an end.

3. Self-supporting Aspect

Gandhi knew that the Government would never spend any amount to educate the teeming millions of India. He, therefore, wanted to make education self-sufficient. He said, “You have to start with the conviction that looking to needs of the villages of India our rural education ought to be made self-supporting it is to be compulsory.” He introduced a manual productive craft the sale proceeds of which would make education self-supporting. The self-supporting aspect may be interpreted in two senses, viz. education that makes one self-supporting in later life and education which in itself is self-supporting. Gandhi holds that the child at the age of fourteen, after finishing seven or eight years’ education, should be discharged as an earning unit.

Gandhi in the outset of his scheme felt that the government was reluctant to make arrangement for the education of the masses. That had to be started with our own efforts. As a nation we were backward in education and we could not hope to arrange finance in this respect at least in that generation. He, therefore, wanted education to be self-supporting. Children should be enabled to produce from the moment they begin, their education. Through this the recurring expenditures like teacher salaries will be borne by selling the product of the craft. The state should and necessary equipment. He, however, emphasized, that the self-supporting part should be the logical corollary, emphasized, that the self-supporting part should be the logical corollary of the fact that the pupil has learnt the rise of every one of his faculties.

3. The Medium of Instruction

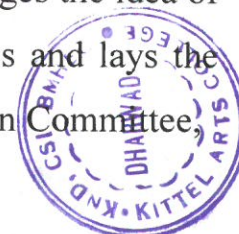

4. Basic education is to be imparted through the mother-tongue. He thinks that a good knowledge of mother-tongue is necessary for developing precision of thought. In this connection Dr. Zakir Hussain Committee observes: "The proper-teaching of the mother-tongue is the foundation of all education. Without the capacity of speaking effectively and to read and write correctly and lucidly, no one can develop precision of thought or clarity of ideas. Moreover, it is a means of introducing the child to rich heritage of his people's ideas, emotions and aspirations, and can, therefore, be made a valuable means of social education. Thus we avoid waste of energy, and the knowledge acquired in a natural and spontaneous way becomes part and parcel of the pupils' mental constitution.

5. The Cult of Non-Violence

To quote Dr. M.S.Patel it is indisputable fact that the Wardha Scheme is imbued with Gandhiji's cardinal creed on non-violence. In the words of Shri K. G. Mashruwala, "It is the application of the law of non-violence in the training of the child as a prospective citizen of the world. True education must be imparted through non-violence." This seems to be the central idea of his scheme of education as well as the mission of his life. He rightly said, "If India has resolved to eschew violence, this system of education becomes an integral part of the discipline she has to go through." He further contends that we cannot and will not think in terms of exploitation and we have no alternative but this plan of education which is based on non-violence."

6. Ideal of Citizenship

The scheme of basic education based upon three factors, viz, workers, citizen and parent. Through education we must produce good citizens, rather productive citizens and not drabs or parasites. The scheme envisages the idea of a co-operative community and encourages co-operative activities and lays the "foundation of ideal citizenship". In the words of Dr. Zakir Hussain Committee, “Thus the new scheme which we are advocating will aim at giving the citizens of the future a keen sense of personal worth, dignity and efficiency and will strengthen in them the desire for self-improvement and social service in a co-operative community.”

7. The Ideal of a Co-operative Community

Basic school has to function like a co-operative community. The children while, working on some productive and manual work will learn co-operation and consequently imbibe essential virtues of successful community living. Productive citizens, good workers and sincere parents will constitute an ideal community. During the course of education, children will acquire “the essential medium of social and civic training” rich in educative possibilities.

Syllabus for Basic Education

- 1) The Basic Craft: The craft or productive work chosen should be rich educative possibilities.

The object is the exploitation for educative purposes of the resources implicit in craftwork. Three suitable basic crafts were recommended by the committee, viz., (1) Agriculture, 2) Spinning and Weaving, and (3) Card-board work, wood work and metal work. For the effective execution of the scheme and to ensure natural co-ordination, three centres of correlation were suggested. They are: Physical environment, the social environment, and the craft chosen.

Gandhi wanted that the craft chosen “should be a village craft and should be useful.” Craft possesses greater educative values. In the words of the Secondary Education Commission, “It trains practical aptitudes, facilitates clarity of thinking, gives chances for co-operative work and thus enriches the entire personality.” Gandhi regarded spinning and weaving as supreme as he said. “In any curriculum of the future, spinning must be a compulsory subject.” However, it may be pointed out that many more crafts have been suggested by the subsequent committees and commissions.

2. The Mother-Tongue. The creative and utilitarian values of mother-tongue are beyond doubt. Gandhi recommended mother-tongue to be the medium of instruction in his scheme. According to him, mother-tongue alone could acquaint the child with the social heritage, aspirations, ideas, ethical and moral values of his country. Supporting the conviction of Gandhi, Zakir Hussain Committee emphasized the proper teaching of mother-tongue from the very beginning of the education of the child. According to the Committee, the students should be able to converse freely, read loudly and silently, use the list of contents and index, consult dictionaries and reference books and use the library for acquiring further information on topics of their interest.

3. Mathematics: The introduction of mathematics is based on the object of developing capacity of the students to solve ordinary numerical and geometrical problems. In learning mathematics the pupils would be required to measure quantities and values. This will also develop their reasoning capacities.

4. Social Studies: Social Studies are to include history, geography, civics and current events. The study of Social Studies should inculcate in the students the right attitude and values which develop civic efficiency and a sense of national patriotism and a love for international understanding. The Zakir Hussain Committee framed certain broader objectives for the teaching of this subject.

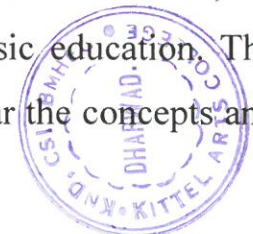

Besides, the curriculum will include: General Science, Drawing, Music and Hindustani.

Causes of the Failure of Basic Education

Gandhi once said, “ I have given many things to India. But this system of education together with its technique is, I feel, the best of them. I do not think, I will have anything better to offer the country.” His educational ideas were the outcome of his life time training, experience and experimentation of the basic scheme of education at the Tolstoy Farm, the Sabarmati Ashram and the Satyagrah Ashram. He devoted his time, energy and resources truly named as Indian national Education. Since his scheme of education was based on ancient Indian culture and was related to the basic needs. The countries of the world are having their own national system of education developed by an educationist of their own state. American education is influenced by John Dewey’s system of education. Education in Soviet Russia is influenced by the Marxist philosophy. But in India we do not have such a type of education. The education, that we are imparting to our children is borrowed from other countries. We are not prepared to accept the scheme of education developed by the father of our nation. Nathuram Godse, a fanatic assassinated Gandhi, but we the people of India gave a deathblow to his scheme of education. His scheme of education failed due to the reasons stated below:

1. The Concept of Basic Education is not made Clear

Most of our educationists, educational administrators and teachers are not clear about the concepts and fundamentals of basic education. They are in a state of confusion in the understanding of this concept. As a result of this, the general masses fail to understand the significance of basic education. The Government of India does not take any steps to make clear the concepts and fundamentals of this system of education.

2. This System is not Accepted by the Rich

Since this system is not appreciated by the rich and learned people of our country, it becomes unpopular. These people send their children either to public schools or English medium schools.

3. The Muslims opposed this System

People belonging to Muslim community felt that it is in opposition to their culture due to the ideology of “Ahimsa.” Yet the plan did not presuppose the acceptance of nonviolence for one to support it.”

4. Teaching of Academic Subjects through a Craft was not Appreciated

Basic education made education craft centred. Craft laid emphasis on economic aspects only. Students became money minded. They were interested in money rather than study. In the words of P.S. Naidu, “It is impossible to establish any natural association between craft and all the subjects of cultural value which any sane system of education should cover through its curriculum. Teaching should be concrete and should be based on the child’s active experience in his environment. But it is absurd to hang all knowledge from the peg of a single craft.” Craft as the centre of education was not liked either by the educators or the Government.

5. Faulty Timetable

In basic education more time was devoted to craft. Other subjects were neglected. Therefore people did not like this system of education. A critic like R. K. Singh says, “In basic schools only two thirds or half the normal time is given to academic education, the rest being taken up by crafts. Further, since on the timetable academic subjects generally come after the craftwork mostly agriculture, students are sometimes too tired to take to academic work kindly.”

6. Development of some Epithets

The critics developed some epithets and propagated them in order to abolish this system of education. Some called this system of fad because it does not have either a psychological basis or pedagogical basis. Others called this system a fallacy because the very fundamentals of this system as a farce because it was impracticable. The articles prepared by the students were stored to show them to the visitors. Basic education was also criticized as a fraud because it was being committed on the country by those who were in power.

7. Lack of Qualified Teacher

Gandhi developed a new pattern of education taking into consideration the Indian situation. This system of education had many new features. The teacher occupied the position of a mother in this new education. Our traditional teachers failed to understand this philosophy of Gandhi. There was no scope for imparting training to the teachers. For the lack of qualified teachers this system failed.

8. This System gives undue Emphasis on Primary Education

Basic education started as primary education. As a result of this secondary education and higher education, suffered a lot under the scheme. Besides this, secondary education and higher education became subordinate to primary education, as a result of which, this system failed. No doubt Gandhi emphasized on secondary education and higher education in his scheme of Nai-Talim, but much attention was paid to the improvement of primary education at the cost of the other two.

9. Apathy of the Kothari Commission

The Indian Education Commission or the Kothari Commission was set up in the year 1966. It gave recommendations for the improvement of different stages of education beginning from the primary stage. But it is a matter of great regret that the commission completely ignored basic education. In spite of this, the Ministry of Education, Government of India, conducted a seminar at Sevagram on Gandhi Education in 1970. The seminar emphasized on “dignity of manual labour through the use of work as part of the education programme.” But in the Fourth Five Year Plan, the central government did not mention anything about basic education.

10. The Plan was not Tested at the National Level

M.S. Patel and N.P. Pillai, two supporters of Gandhi Education felt that the scheme of education of Mahatma Gandhi was not really tested on a national scale. Our country also rejected much in Gandhi’s conception of education, especially its notion of self-support and its emphasis on primary education.

11. Apathy of the Administration

The Indian administration failed to understand the problem of basic education and considered it as a minor thing. Pillai therefore says, “It may be seen that the scheme of basic education now accepted by the Government of India is not same as the one which Gandhi had originally outlined.”

11. Matriculation minus English

12. Gadhiji emphasized that upto matriculation stage English should not be taught to the student. Because of this attitude many students did not like to read in these schools.

13. Want of Research

For the improvement of this new education, research activities were not encouraged.

14. Want of Adequate Staff and Equipment

Basic education required adequate staff and equipments. But the government failed to provide all these.

15. Want of Textbooks

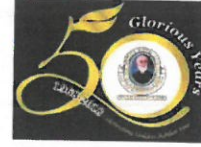

In basic education, textbooks were not emphasized. No standard textbook was developed by anybody.

16. Development of White –Collar Attitude

Because of the impact of western education, the students of India completely forgot their own culture. After completing their education they wanted to become white-collar baboos. In basic education manual work was emphasized. One has to work hard at the time of study. It is not possible to become a baboo in this scheme of education. Therefore, many parents and students did not like this education
